Jones the president, Mr. Josiah Mozes read a selection, followed by a declamation by J. Day Lee. Next came the debate The question was: "Resolved, That the United States should adopt the policy of territorial expansion."

J. E. Hicks, the first affirmative, spoke, as usual, in a very logical manner. His main point for imperialism was the civilizing sinfluence that the United States would have over the territory that came under its power.

T. W. Moore, the first negative, showed in a very forcible manner the evils of the expansion policy. Taken allogither Mr. Moore's speech was the most popular of the evening.

W. H. Krunke, the second affirmative, eulogized the past history of the United States. Mr. Erunke's oratory brought frequent applainse from the evond.

B. W. Buchanan, the second negative, made a forceful argument against imperialism, especially showing the bad effects of a standing army.

A reception was given after the debate to the members of the Mu Sigma Rho Society and their lady friends. After the reception dancing was indulged in.
